Last week the Center visited Schell Games in Pittsburgh's Station Square. Jesse Schell, CEO, along with developers, programmers, and marketing and education specialists toured us around the innovative space and presented current projects, including Happy Atoms, PlayForward: Elm City Stories, and Night Shift.

We had fun demoing Schell Games' virtual reality chemistry lab, HoloLAB Champions, which will launch later this month.

The space overlooks the Monongahela River, Station Square, and has a view of the incline through the back windows.

Get a taste of Schell Games by participating in an upcoming playtest and stay up to date by following them on Facebook and Twitter!
